

Thanks for the Legal Elite Nomination

Recently Virginia Business Magazine announced its Legal Elite for 2010. I am proud to announce my inclusion in the Construction Law category for the fourth year running. I am particularly proud that this streak of nominations has continued after the founding of my new firm and solo practice.

Among those on the list are my good friend and fellow construction lawyer Tim Hughes (@timrhughes) and a couple of other pals, John Owen and Brett Marston (congratulations to all of you). I am as always honored to be a part of such an elite list of lawyers (20% of the 3826 lawyers nominated made the list in 15 different categories) and to be elected by my peers in Virginia as a top construction lawyer. I encourage you to peruse the list and congratulate those you know.

So, without further ado, thank you to all of you who nominated me for this honor and congratulations to all of my friends and colleagues who are on the list of Virginia Business Magazine's Legal Elite.

Please check out my Construction Law Musings Blog for more on Virginia construction law and other topics.