National Deportation, Appellate and Immigration Law Firm Opens Location in Manhattan

NEW YORK, NEW YORK (Dec. 1, 2012) – Baurkot & Baurkot, a leading Deportation, Immigration and Appellate Law Firm, announced the opening of its Manhattan, New York office. The Firm, which has often gained acclaim for its representation of immigrants across the nation, will now have a fully-staffed location at 305 Broadway, Suite 402, New York, New York 10007. Baurkot's New York office is across the road from the Immigration Court at Federal Plaza in Manhattan and a few short blocks from the Immigration Court and Prison for detained aliens located at 201 Varick Street, New York, New York.

"To better serve our Client's, many of who are located in the Brooklyn, Manhattan, Bronx, Queens and Staten Island areas—the five New York Boroughs—we have decided to locate our Firm in a central location where Baurkot's attorneys can have the ability to meet with our Clients and their families, without having our Clients travel long distances," said Raymond Lahoud, Esquire, who will direct the New York office, "this fact greatly decreases client legal expenses."

A key consideration Baurkot Law discusses when making any decision is what the Firm can do to keep client legal expenses at a minimum, without compromising the quality representation that has become synonymous with the Baurkot & Baurkot name: "When we evaluated client expenses, we found that centralizing the Firm in New York, particularly in Manhattan, would save the average deportation client substantial money that, we believe, is better spent in helping the immigrant's family as the deportation process works its way through," noted Lahoud, "we had to take an action to better assist our immigrant clients, who are also suffering the economic hardships that every American is now facing. Opening an office in Manhattan was necessary."

Most of Baurkot & Baurkot's cases are before the New York City and Newark, New Jersey Immigration Courts. The New York City office is at the center of all of the Immigration and Appellate Courts that serve these Clients. Further, the Firm's New York office is a very short distance from the area immigration detention centers holding inmates that must appear before immigration courts in New York and New Jersey.

Baurkot & Baurkot is a leading New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey law firm founded in Easton, Pennsylvania, and has combined legal experience that exceeds seventy-five years. The Firm focuses primarily on only three practice areas: deportation, appellate and immigration law. The Firm's New York office will be staffed and provide what has become the hallmark of the Baurkot & Baurkot Law experience, twenty-four (24) hour emergency deportation services.
