I'm pleased to be featured in the latest installment of Solo Practice University's "What's New?" series. The series consists of free audio guest lectures in which SPU faculty discuss the latest developments in their own practice areas or their specific areas of business expertise.

My lecture on what's new in appellate practice—which is in an interview-style format with SPU founder Susan Cartier Liebel—is available through this link or at the SPU site.
