Founding Story

T.J. Clark (www.mlmllegal.com) is located in St. George, Utah.

T.J. Clark, then T.J. Clark Colloidal Minerals was first established in the 1920s. T.J. Clark was then a rancher in Central Utah and fell very ill. Doctors were unable to diagnose his condition but a local Native American led him to a 100 million-year-old mineral spring where he drank and became well. He eventually traced the spring water to its source. The spring is now owned by his grandson, Tom, who is currently the President and CEO of the company.

T.J. Clark worked during his lifetime to refine the mineral water. He gave samples to neighbors and managed to develop a highly-effective mineral formula.

T.J. Clark's grandson still works to better recognize and refine the mineral substances. T.J. Clark Minerals contain most of the 94 naturally-occurring elements in trace amounts.

The company sells the founding story on cassette.
