

Legal Research Sites Take on Google!

Posted by Martha Newman, J.D., PCC, TopLawyerCoach, LLC • February 3, 2010 • Printer-friendly

Sweeping Changes in Store for Westlaw, LexisNexis

Big changes are coming to powerhouse legal research sites Westlaw and LexisNexis.

Ashlee Vance at the New York Times reports that in effort to keep up with the likes of web services offered by Google and Microsoft, Westlaw and LexisNexis will undergo some modifications in order to make it easier and faster for lawyers to search for the documents they need.

The highlights:

- Better-looking interfaces
- More relevant search results
- New tools for document sharing

What won't change are the fees.

Top Lawyer Coach, LLC
601 Penn Street
Fort Worth, TX 76102

817/992-6711
newman@toplawyercoach.com

Westlaw and LexisNexis will still charge lawyers and researchers to go online to find court cases and other legal documents.

For more on these modifications and when they'll be introduced, read Legal Sites Plan Overhaul as Rivals Compete on Price.

With the legal industry in a state of flux, one thing's for certain: Westlaw and Lexis are on a mission to keep up with the times - and to ensure that they won't disappear anytime soon.

Top Lawyer Coach, LLC
601 Penn Street
Fort Worth, TX 76102

817/992-6711
newman@toplawyercoach.com

