

You have a legal headache. I can help make it go away.

Recent events demonstrate that actions allegedly taken by financial institutions which sponsor securitization may invalidate securitized mortgages, preclude foreclosure of securitized mortgages in default and create massive liability for the financial institutions. I have developed a new approach to foreclosure which restarts fast track foreclosure and which circumvents these impediments. It can be used in judicial and non-judicial jurisdictions. It relies upon existing legal authorities which, amazingly, have not been used for foreclosure. This new approach can also be used to either remove or constrict liability for the past actions allegedly taken by financial institutions which sponsor securitization and their foreclosure counsel.

I know what I am talking about. I first called attention to the legal problems associated with foreclosure of securitized mortgages more than two years ago. My company established legal forms for defense against foreclosure based upon these problems. See documentaryclearinghouse.com. When the toxic document crisis first received media attention, I published a list of 16 different types of toxic documents.

I was one of the first to call attention to the problems. Now I appear to be the first to call attention to the solution. Please call me; for all you know, I may be able to help.
