

Take a WIFF!

“What would you do if...?” That is how I began a presentation that I gave earlier this year, just a few short months after my office was ravaged by fire. I then showed pictures of what was left of the office, the computer systems, and the charred remains of files. As of the writing of this article, I am still not back in my office.

Arson, theft, floods, windstorms, landslides, earthquakes, illness.... These are not pleasant topics of conversation. So much so that we easily talk ourselves into believing “Nothing will happen to me.” But as this excerpt illustrates, we are all vulnerable. Emergencies can and do happen. You owe it to yourself, your family, your employees, and your clients to prepare. So follow along with me and learn how. View my PowerPoint on Scribd.

Copyright 2010 Beverly Michaelis

Originally posted at <http://oregonlawpracticemanagement.wordpress.com/2010/11/08/take-a-wiff/> November 8, 2010.