

OBAMA ANNOUNCES PROPOSAL FOR HEALTH CARE SYSTEM OVERHAUL

Monday, February 22, 2010 at 11:47AM

Obama revealed today his proposal for revamping the health care system. From a regulatory litigation standpoint, like Dave Jones' expected proposal for a bill in the California legislature, it calls for a review of premium rate increases, which could lead to more litigation and costs regarding rate increases. Obama's plan, however, calls for much more, such as providing subsidies to lower income people to buy insurance through state exchanges and restrict the ability of insurers to deny coverage for pre-existing conditions. More details on the proposal can be found at the White House website (link here).
