Top Design Products of 2011 (Tue Tip)

January 17, 2012

ED+C (Environmental Design & Construction) magazine recently released a list of its top 10 design products for 2011, based on reader requests for additional information.

Topping the list? The Energy Star LED lightbulb.

Most popular type of product? Materials relating to air quality.

Item which made the best picture for this post? The Invisi Series II toilet by Caroma, which is designed to maximize floor space by making smaller bathrooms more roomy and luxurious while using the company's award-winning Smartflush technology. (The half flush uses 0.8 gallons-per-flush (gpf) for liquids, and the full flush uses 1.28 gpf for solids for an average volume of 0.9 gpf.). Funky little toilet, isn't it?

What do you think were the top design products of 2011? Share in the comments below.
