

CANNABIS AND COMMERCE LEGAL SURVIVAL GUIDES

San Francisco, California, May 9, 2011 -- Litigation Research Group is publishing state-specific cannabis and commerce handbooks detailing how to grow and distribute marijuana “as much within the law as possible,” according to the publisher.

Medical Marijuana Delivery Guide is a 48 page, 5 x 8 ½ inch handbook that covers the eight steps necessary to launch a state law-compliant delivery service. The Guide suggests legal best practices in view of recent enforcement actions taken by the California Board of Equalization, the I.R.S., and the U.S. Department of Justice; and offers documentation suggestions.

Medical Marijuana Delivery Guide sells for $19.95, and is currently available online at lawandpractice.com for only $14.20.

“These guides are informed by on-the-ground business intelligence from successful, long term marijuana growers and dispensary owners,” according to attorney/co-editor, Douglas Slain. Colorado and Washington state editions will be available later this summer.

Marijuana Growers’ Legal Survival Guide, a more comprehensive and in-depth treatment of the subject, will be published in July.

San Francisco-based Litigation Research Group began publishing national law reporting services in 1977; today the company publishes two securities enforcement reporting services in addition to an EB-5 Immigration Program Guide.
